WILL PUBLISH NEXT WEEK

Riverside Aldine Series.

A new series of books which have already won great popularity, but which, it is believed, will attain a very much wider circulation in an attractive new edition and at a popular price. They are printed from entirely new electrotypes plates, with a peculiarly inviting page, on paper made expressly for this edition, and bound in a simple and tasteful style. The two volumes now ready are:

MARJORIE DAW, AND OTHER STORIES. By THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

MY SUMMER IN A GARDEN. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.
Price, $1.00 each.

Pilot Fortune.

A Novel. By MARIAN C. L. REEVES and EMILY READ. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

This novel—a love story—will command attention for its fresh, breezy, and wholesome tone, its bright and cleverly-managed plot, and its well-sustained interest. The scene of the story, which is laid in a picturesque fishing hamlet on the shores of the Bay of Fundy, gives opportunities for many charming descriptive passages.

Harriet Martineau's Autobiography.

With Memorials by MRS. MARIA WESTON CHAPMAN. New Popular Edition. With a photograph of the Portrait bust by ANNE WHITNEY. 2 vols., 12mo, $4.00.

A new and desirable edition of this singularly interesting work, of which the New York Evening Post remarked: "We are impressed with the belief that she has done for autobiography what Boswell did for biography, and that her work is so far the best one of its kind, that no other autobiographer deserves to be named as even second to her."

Colonel T. W. HIGGINSON said of this work: "Among all the innumerable pictures of London literary society, Miss Martineau's series of portraits will stand unrivaled."

 Special interest just now is felt in the charming book of short stories:

In the Tennessee Mountains.

By CHARLES EGBERT CRADDOCK. $1.25.

CONTENTS: Drifting down Lost Creek; A-Playin' of Old Sledge at the Settlement; The Star in the Valley; Electioneerin' on Big Injun Mounting; The Romance of Sunrise Rock; The Dancin' Party at Harrison's Cove; Over on the T'other Mounting; The "Harnt" that walks Chilhowee.

"Something much more than mere short stories. We have not only one mountain valley, but a whole country of hills—not a man and a woman here and there, but the people of a whole district—not merely a day of winter or of summer, but all the year—not lives, but life. Mr. Craddock is a master of the art of description. . . . His vivid pictures of the roughness and loneliness of a wild country are not painted for their own sake, but because if we know them our hearts will be stirred by the sorrow and the joy of the life that is spent there. . . . The style is admirable, with marked characteristics of its own."—The Nation (New York).

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY

Will Publish March 16th:

A LIMITED EDITION IN PAPER OF E. P. ROE'S NOVEL,

Without a Home.

Quarto Paper. With Illustrations by McVickar. Price, 25 cents.

FIRST EDITION, 55,000 COPIES. Of the Cheap Editions of "Barriers Burned Away" and "Opening of a Chestnut Burr" 152,000 copies have been sold. Both of these are out of print and the plates destroyed. "Without a Home" is the most popular of Mr. Roe's books, more copies of it having been sold than any other of his works in the same time.

The Regular 12mo edition is now in its 47th Thousand. This entire paper edition has been ordered by the American News Company, and Booksellers will please address their orders accordingly.

ALSO IN MARCH:

History of the Huguenot Emigration to America.

By Charles W. Baird. 2 vols., 8vo, with maps and illustrations. $5.

This important work which was announced for publication last Autumn but was necessarily delayed is now issued.

From Author's Preface: "The story of the Huguenot Emigration to America has remained, till now, unwritten. This has not been due to a lack of interest in the subject, nor to a failure to recognize its importance. Yet there has scarcely been a serious attempt to set in order the facts that have been known in reference to this theme; much less, to delve into the mass of documentary evidence that might be supposed to exist. The present work is the fruit of investigations that have been carried on, in this country and in France and England, during the last ten or twelve years. The materials used have been found largely in unpublished documents."

Jan Vedder's Wife.

By Amelia E. Barr. Cloth, $1.25.

The publishers are of the opinion that this story, though one of great simplicity, will attract an unusual amount of attention, not only because of the manner in which it is told, but of the fresh scenes in which its characters move.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY, Publishers,
755 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

MARCH PUBLICATIONS.

OBITER DICTA. With a new American Preface. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.00. Pub. Mar. 10.

"An obiter dictum, in the language of the law, is a gratuitous opinion, and individual impertinence, which, whether it be wise or foolish, right or wrong, bindeth none—not even the lips that utter it."—OLD JUDGE.

"An eminently pleasant and companionable book. Open it where we may, we find something to entertain and stimulate, to invite meditation, and provoke reflection. This is partly due to the temper of the book, partly to the engaging simplicity of its style."—London Times.

MEDIEVAL CHRISTIANITY. By Dr. PHILIP SCHAFF. Being Vol. IV. "History of the Christian Church." 8vo, $4. Pub. Mar. 10.

The book covers the history of the Church in the Middle Ages from Gregory I. (590) to Gregory VII. (1073), and discusses a most interesting but comparatively little known period, teeming with events of the greatest importance in the history of Christianity and civilization.

TEACHINGS OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES. ΔΙΔΑΧΗ ΤΩΝ ΔΩΔΕΚΑ ΑΠΟΣΤΟΛΩΝ. Edited with a Translation, Introduction, and Notes by ROSWELL D. HITCHCOCK, D.D., and Professor FRANCIS BROWN. 1 vol., 12mo, $2.00. Pub. Mar. 24.

The attempt is made in this book to give suitable recognition to the extensive literature of the subject which has come up since the first translation was published. The editors, deeming it one of the richest discoveries of modern times, defend the MSS. from attempts to discredit it as a forgery, and a specially valuable feature will be found in the discussion concerning the relations between the "teachings" and other early Christian documents, with translations of these in extenso, so far as seemed desirable for purposes of comparison.

THE RESCUE OF GREELY. By Commander W. S. SCHLEY, U. S. N., and Professor J. RUSSELL SOLEY, U. S. N. With maps and numerous illustrations. 1 vol., 8vo, $3.00. Pub. Mar. 24.

The authoritative story of the successful search for the lost "Lady Franklin Bay Expedition" is now told for the first time, by the Commander of the relief party and Professor Soley, the custodian of the official records. The introductory portion reviews the sending out of the original expedition and the two unsuccessful search expeditions. The main narrative tells the absorbing story of the relief and the finding of the starving men. The volume is illustrated from the admirable photographs made by the expedition, and the maps are from official sources, and published here for the first time.

This valuable manual has been prepared by the command of the Chief of Ordnance, U. S. Army. It is the only book on the subject thus authorized by the Government, and its great value to all members of State militia and marksmen is obvious.

IN THE DISTANCE. A Novel. By GEORGE PARSONS LATHROP. [New edition.] 1 vol., 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. Pub. Mar. 17.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MACMILLAN & Co. will issue at once their edition for this year of the "Statesman's Year Book." The article on Egypt has been revised by an official high in office at Cairo.

J. A. & R. A. REID, Providence, have in preparation the Hon. Samuel S. Cox's work, entitled "Three Decades of Federal Legislation, 1855 to 1885," of which more extended notice will be given in our Spring Announcement number.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish to-day a new volume in the International Scientific Series on "Jelly-Fish, Star-Fish, and Sea Urchins," a research on primitive nervous systems, by G. J. Romanes; "Discriminate," a manual for guidance in the use of correct words and phrases in ordinary speech, by "Critic," intended as a companion to "Don't;" and in their new twenty-five cent series of novels, "The Witch's Head," by H. R. Haggard.

THE CAXTON BOOK COMPANY announce as in press "Treasury of Tales," edited by Prof. William Swinton, containing 105 choice stories of imagination, love, humor, terror and pathos. Among the American authors represented in the 576 pages of this quarto, are such well-known writers as E. E. Hale, H. P. Spofford, Julia Schayer, Rose Terry Cooke, Ella Wheeler and A. A.

Hayes. It also includes a large number of successful foreign tales not easily accessible, and original translations of many of the finest products of modern French fiction.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SONS will publish shortly a work by Prof. John G. R. McElroy, on "The Structure of English Prose: a Manual of Composition and Rhetoric." In this volume are presented the lectures read before the students of the University of Pennsylvania during the past eight years. The author does not merely discuss the theory of rhetoric, but endeavors to show the student, by practical exercises taken from our latest literature, how to express it when found. It is intended for use in both college and advanced classes in high schools and seminaries.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS, as the American agents for the Oxford edition, and the J. B. Lippincott Company as the authorized agents for the Cambridge edition of the Revised Version of the Holy Bible, have issued their prospectuses, from which it appears that the work may be looked for early in May. There will be eight editions, as follows: pearl, 16mo, price, in cloth, $1; minion, demy 8vo, cloth, $2; small pica, imperial 8vo, cloth, $6.50; pica, demy 8vo, in five volumes, cloth, $11.50, or the Old Testament only, in four volumes, cloth, $10; pica, royal 8vo, in five volumes, cloth, $20, or the Old Testament only, in four volumes, cloth, $16, and the parallel Bible, being the Authorized Version arranged in parallel columns with the Revised Version, minion, crown quarto, cloth, $8.

BELFORD, CLARKE & Co. have purchased the entire stock of bound works issued by the John W. Lovell Company, and will hereafter also control the plates, including those of the works hitherto sold by R. Worthington. The John W. Lovell Company will confine their publications for the future exclusively to the Lovell Library Series. Belford, Clarke & Co. announce as under way an unabridged and unaltered edition of Chambers's Encyclopædia, containing all the illustrations of the English work reprinted from the Edinburgh edition for 1884, with a carefully prepared American supplement and thirty-eight full-page maps printed in colors. They have also in preparation two editions of Ruskin's and of Carlyle's works, of which fuller details will be given in our Spring Announcement number.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. begin next week a new series, called the Riverside Aldine, in which they propose to publish a number of books of assured reputation, in a style of marked simplicity and tastefulness. They aim to reproduce the distinctive excellences of both the Aldine and Pickering publications, which have had and merited so great and permanent fame. The first two volumes will be Mr. Aldrich's "Marjorie Daw and Other Stories," which includes three stories not embraced in the previous editions, and Mr. Warner's delicious "My Summer in a Garden." Other volumes to appear in the series soon are: Lowell's "Fireside Travels," John Hay's "Castilian Days," Howells's "Venetian Life" (in two volumes), Burroughs's "Wake Robin," and Bret Harte's "Luck of Roaring Camp." The price of these is a dollar a volume. H., M. & Co. will also bring out next week, "Pilot Fortune," a striking novel of the Bay of Fundy; and a new popular edition of the Autobiography of Harriet Martineau in two duodecimo volumes.

- An eccentric uncle leaves forty thousand pounds to a nephew and niece on condition that they marry six months after his death. The cousins scarcely know each other, the girl Esmé Brabazon, having been kept in obscurity by a disagreeable stepmother, while the young man has been serving his country in British Burmah. They are both adverse to the conditions of the will, and do not meet until the six months are almost up, when they most unexpectedly fall in love. What comes very near to being a tragedy in their lives is cleverly and pathetically told. The character sketching is very good, and the dialogue unusually bright and amusing. Altogether a very readable novel. By the author of "Pretty Miss Neville."

Flemming, Harford. A carpet knight: a novel. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1885. 2+436 p. D. cl., $1.25.

An American story, the scene laid in Philadelphia among society people; the story, a long one, is evolved almost entirely through the medium of dialogue, which occasionally becomes tedious, as it is somewhat lacking in spirit and wit. The plot turns upon the misunderstanding of four pair of lovers, the incidents at times verging upon the tragical. The "carpet knight" is not a term of derision, but is applied to the noble guardian of the young heroine; thinking his son loves his ward as he does, he endeavors to sacrifice himself for his happiness. By the author of Cupid and the sphinx."

Originally delivered as a series of historical lectures on Louisiana at the People's Lyceum, New Orleans. As an introduction the first volume comprises "The Poetry, or the Romance, of the history of Louisiana," describing in a most dramatic manner the fictitious and legendary history connected with this state. The second volume in a more serious vein deals of the period extending from the discovery of Louisiana to 1769 when it was finally transferred by the French to the Spanish, in virtue of the Fontainebleau treaty signed in Nov. 1763. The third volume is a most graphic account of the Spanish domination, from O'Reilly's administration, 1769, to that of Salcedo, 1801-1803. The last volume covers the period from the cession to the United States in 1803 to the eventful year 1815, including a full account of Jackson's campaign. A supplemental chapter carries the history forward to 1861. The work is regarded as a standard, and has received unqualified praise by some of the best-known American historians. Gayarré was born in New Orleans, Jan. 1805, and has at various times been Judge of the New Orleans City Court, Deputy Attorney-General, U. S. Senator and Secretary of State of Louisiana.

Written by the author of "Sun, Moon and Stars," in response to a demand for a work on astronomy, much easier than that popular work; very small children will be able to comprehend this attractively written book, and imbibe by slow steps a very thorough knowledge of the heavens. It is somewhat in the shape of a story; a little invalid boy, his tutor, his father and nurse being the characters.

The results of this investigation are found in this interesting volume, which gives at length the experiments and tests; they all go to show that mind-reading is a fact, in spite of much fraud and deception that has naturally surrounded it and its votaries. Each important country has a separate leaf, and there are additional leaves for the popes, the church, and for literary characters. Reversing the fan, one finds the chronology of the pre-Christian centuries, the Roman Empire in quarter-centuries, the United States in quarter-centuries, and exhibits of sculptors, painters, architects, useful arts, etc. The chart is printed throughout in bold type, is handsomely mounted, and furnished with a tasteful ornamental cover.

- A French preface explains that immediately upon the publication of his "Entretiens sur la Grammaire" the author realized that the work was not suited to the needs of schools, which he now aims to supply by this more simple and less philosophic grammar, written specially for English-speaking students. The preface also includes a flattering letter from Littré, addressed to the author by the great specialist in language, which the author says he would not part with for the wreath of the French Academy.

The verbs are written out in full through every mood and tense, which is a useful feature of this practical book.

THE POST-OFFICE AND THE PUBLIC.

THE Post-Office is peculiarly the people's department of the Government, and in its personnel it ought to have no more to do with "politics" than a merchant's office.

The New York Post-Office, under the administrations of Postmasters James and Pearson, has been an excellent example of how postal business may be and should be conducted without reference to the political opinions of those persons who happen to be employed by it. It is not too much to say that the retention of Postmaster Pearson, whose term expires on the 21st of this month, will be the most important stride possible toward making the Post-Office Department a purely business concern, and will be the best earnest of the new Administration's determination to meet the wishes of the great body of the public in carrying out fully the principles of Civil Service Reform in all Post-Office work. The merchants of New York—indeed, all who have to do with the Post-Office in this city—are practically unanimous in their satisfaction with the present administration of that office, and in the desire that no change should be made. We feel that we do not transgress the proper line of demarcation between business and politics in giving expression through a trade journal to this strong feeling on the part of the mercantile community.

There are a number of abuses which have grown up in the Post-Office Department, apart from that greatest abuse which consists in making post-offices not places of accommodation for the public, but of accommodation for the political servitors of the party or politicians in power. In one respect, indeed, the whole spirit of the service needs to be changed. With the long continuance in power of certain bureaucrats there has grown up in Washington a superstition that the interests of the Post-Office and of the public are somehow in opposition, and that when any case arises as to the application of rules and regulations, the case is always to be decided against the public. Mr. James H. Marr, whose name has given rise to the common phrase about "marring" the mails, seems to have been a chief apostle of red tape; and almost every decision which has come from him, seems to have had the intent and effect of restricting the benefit which the public derives from the postal service. This gentleman may be, for aught we know, one of the most useful officials, who ought to be retained under the general principles of Civil Service Reform, but a reform in the methods he approves is imperatively needed. The new Postmaster-General, coming fresh to his work, should be able to influence his chief assistants with a better spirit within those limitations necessary to protect the Department and do its business with thoroughness. The practice should be to give the public every possible advantage.

It is an amusing superstition of the Department that infallibility is the prerogative of the Post-Office. How amusing this assumption is was interestingly shown the other day when an inquiry as to a missing letter from Henton, Illinois, was returned to the New York Post-Office with the indorsement that no such post-office existed in the State, though it was properly entered in the Post-Office Guide in the several places where it belonged. The Post-Office Department has a curious habit of protecting its infallibility by requiring the return to it of all the evidence in such cases, but this possibly is a necessity of administration. If the new Secretary will simply recognize the fact that he is at the head of a great business department, which should do all in its power to accommodate its customers, the people, there will be few, either Republicans or Democrats, who will wish to cavil at that feature of the new Administration.

THE Literary World and the Book-Buyer, in reprinting our tabulated annual summary of the American book production in 1884, overlooked the explanation which we made at the time of the extraordinary number of works of fiction reported. As a matter of fact, not only are most of the novels published in England reprinted in this country, but the great share of them are printed in two, three or four different editions. The number of entries we gave under the head of Fiction, 943, is to be reduced, therefore, not only by the number of novels published in England during that time, 408, but probably by half as many again. This undoubtedly accounts for the "serious discrepancy" noted by the Literary World.

BOOK TITLES AND BOOK TRICKS.

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

THE practice of changing book titles is always a bad one, though now and then such changes are made necessary by circumstances. It is discovered after a book is published that the title chosen for it is already in use, or some other equally good reason impels the author and publisher to make a change.

More frequently the change is merely fanciful, as was the case, apparently, with Mrs. Stowe's "Dred," which, after it had achieved success under that title, was re-christened for a time, only to have its original title restored within the last few weeks. Another very singular case of fanciful change has just occurred. Any reader who has read the tale called "An Iron Hand," in the Family Herald, will find, after buying "Deldee," in the Appleton series, that he has the same story under a new and much better name. If he then goes to England and there buys a new novel entitled "A Dog with a Bad Name," he will be rather disgusted by finding himself again in possession of the same story, for that is the title given to it in the English three-volume edition, just published in London. Why should not the author of the story have settled definitely upon a title for her work at the outset? What right has she to trifle with readers by publishing her story under three totally dissimilar titles?

A much worse offence is committed when publishers revive an old book under a new name for purposes of deception, as certain publishers frequently and even habitually do. We have before us as we write a work on the cover and title-page of which are boldly printed the words, "Blank's Brilliant New Novel," and yet Blank died nearly thirty years ago, and the book is a well-known old one put forth under a new name, not only without warning to the reader, but with a positive assertion that it is a new novel.

There is another interesting phenomenon of book publishing to which we may properly refer in connection with this subject. A certain woman had a mill in which she ground out novels of fourth-rate quality, like any other grist, with patient regularity. Her novels were popular, and, to her publishers, profitable. The woman, unfortunately, died several years ago, but her novels continue to come from the press with all the old regularity. The mill grinds on, though the woman who kept it is gone, and so long as her name suffices to sell the stories that bear it upon their title-pages, her publishers will doubtless find men or women to write novels for her and in her personality. As her novels were matters of no literary consequence, and those written in her name are perhaps quite as good as her own, we do not know that any particular harm is done; but the practice has an ugly look of false pretence about it.

MAX O'RELL WANTS FAIR PLAY.

To the Editor of The Critic.

IT has been my sad lot to see no fewer than four execrable American translations of my last book, "Les Filles de John Bull"—translations that a third-form boy would be ashamed of.

I do not wish to say anything on the subject of the laws of copyright as they exist at present; but, in the name of fair play, I must protest against such execrable travesties of my book being sold as translations.

To find that no royalty was due to me for American copies was bad enough; but to be robbed of the little reputation for lightness of style to which the originals owed a great part of their success in France is really a little more than was deserved by

Your Obedient Servant,

THE PUBLISHERS AND POSTMASTER PEARSON.

THE following memorial, signed, with one exception, by all the New York publishers whom it was possible to reach in the time allowed, has been sent to Washington.

NEW YORK, March 10, 1885.

To the President:

The undersigned, publishers doing business in New York City, recognizing that the business of the Post-Office Department should be divorced from party considerations, and knowing from their own experience that the Post-Office at New York has been most efficiently conducted under its present direction, beg respectfully to present their belief that the retention of Henry G. Pearson, as Postmaster at New York, would be in the interests of the business of the public and of honest and effective administration.

OBITUARY.

STEPHEN B. NOYES.

STEPHEN B. NOYES, for sixteen years librarian of the Brooklyn Library, died on Sunday, March 8, at De Land, Florida, where he had gone in the early winter, hoping for relief from a severe attack of gastritis. Mr. Noyes was born at Cambridge, Mass., in 1834, and was graduated from Harvard in 1853, where his father was at that time professor of Greek and Hebrew. In 1857, Mr. Noyes became librarian of the Athenæum, out of which grew the Brooklyn Library. From 1866-68 Mr. Noyes held a post in the Congressional Library in Washington, and in 1869 went back to Brooklyn to take charge of the Mercantile Library in its new building on Montague Street. The library grew from three thousand to eighty-three thousand volumes, and the great work of Mr. Noyes's life was the Catalogue of the Brooklyn Library (the name Mercantile having meanwhile been dropped), which he published in 1881, and which ranks among the best library catalogues ever made. Its methods and plans are so excellent and the number of books contained in it so representative, that it has been of great service to the book trade in the buying and sale of books, as well as to librarians and readers.

TIMOTHY SHAY ARTHUR.

T. S. ARTHUR, the well known author and publisher, died at his residence in Philadelphia, March 6, aged seventy-six years. Mr. Arthur was born near Newburg, Orange County, N. Y., in 1809, and when quite young removed to Baltimore, where he received his education, and was afterward apprenticed to a trade. In 1833 he accepted the position of agent for a banking company, and went West, where he remained for a few years. He afterward returned to Baltimore, where he published a weekly newspaper called the Athenaeum. In this paper he commenced the publication of a series of short novels, chiefly of a domestic character, which were quite popular, and were republished in newspapers and in cheap editions. In 1841 he removed to Philadelphia, where he has resided ever since. Some years ago, in connection with W. H. Carpenter, he prepared a series of school histories of several of the States. Mr. Arthur has written many popular tales illustrative of domestic life and designed to promote morality. Among his works may be mentioned "Lights and Shadows of Real Life," "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," "Tales for Rich and Poor," "Library for the Household," "Three Years in a Man-trap," "The Good Time Coming," and kindred works. For a number of years he has also published, in connection with his other works, Arthur's Home Magazine.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Hon. D. A. Bingham, author of "The Marriages of the Bonapartes," has made final arrangements with Messrs. Chapman & Hall for the publication of a work on the "Archives of the Bastille."

PROFESSOR FRANZ VON HOLTZENDORFF is editing a "Handbuch des Völkerrechts auf Grundlage neuerer Staatspraxis," with contributions by eminent Continental scholars. It will appear in four octavo volumes.

MR. AUGUSTIN DALY is preparing a privately printed edition of his original plays and adaptations, including among the latter his revision of Farquhar's "Recruiting Officer." Twelve large-paper copies of each play will be printed.

MR. EDMUND NOBLE, who during his stay in Russia supplied the London Daily News with its valuable articles on the political phases of the Russian national life, has recently taken up his residence in Boston. He is reported at work on a new book on Russia, the result of several years' study and research to which Mr. Noble brought the great advantage of a thorough knowledge of the Russian as well as of a dozen other European languages and a facility in reading Persian and Arabic. The main purpose of Mr. Noble is to trace the various influences of Russian environment in accounting for the "Russian revolt" of the day. A sketch of provincial life in Russia will shortly be contributed by Mr. Noble to the Atlantic Monthly.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

CAN any one give address of the publishers of Eddy's Military Tactics, and of Grant's Military Tactics?

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The International Chess Magazine is the title of a new monthly periodical devoted exclusively to chess. It is edited and published by W. Steinitz, well-known in chess circles, from 169 and 170 Fulton St., N. Y.

THE current number of the Christian Union contains the first instalment of a new story by Mrs. Helen Campbell, entitled "Mrs. Herndon's Income," which deals with the widespread discontent of the working-classes, and portrays the conditions under which they live. Every phase of city life among the extreme poor is depicted, but without radicalism and with a deeply rooted conviction that the settlement of the social questions involves justice to employers no less than to the employed, and that what is needed, above all things, is a clear, just and sympathetic understanding of the relations and duties of both classes.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE next volume of the "Eminent Women Series" will be "Susannah Wesley," by Mrs. Elizabeth Clarke.

THE MUTUAL NEWS CO., Boston branch, has just published in pamphlet form, a squib, entitled "Bread-Pills: a Study of the Mind Cure: What It is and How to do It," by C. M. Barrows.

J. H. EARLE, Boston, has published a work entitled "God's will Known and Done," by Rev. Almon Underwood; and the fourth edition of "Why? or, tried in the fire," by D. S. Sherburne.

AN interesting description, with maps and illustrations, of the Northern Pacific Railroad is given in a handsome pamphlet, "The Wonderland Route to the Pacific Coast," published by C. S. Fee, general passenger agent, Chicago.

G. W. & C. B. COLTON & Co., N. Y., have published a map of the seat of war in Africa. It measures 12 x 15 inches, is colored, and gives in detail the geography of northwestern Africa and the neighboring region in Asia and Europe.

GEO. B. REED has just published "The Monroe Doctrine," by Geo. F. Tucker of the Boston bar, a concise history of the origin and growth of an institution which for sixty years has been of the greatest interest to the nation.

MACMILLAN & Co. will have ready shortly, the second part of Dr. Murray's English Dictionary, which will carry the work to the word "Bazaar." Philip Gilbert Hamerton's long-expected work on "Landscape" will probably not be ready until fall.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will issue in a few days the volume on "Galatians," in the series of commentaries on the Epistles, by Rev. J. A. Beets. He will also issue at once "Quatrefoil, a Souvenir of May Dickinson," done up in dainty style for Easter remembrance.

THE disclosure that "Charles Egbert Craddock" is a lady has set everybody talking about her remarkable stories "In the Tennessee Mountains," which, by general consent are, as one critic says, "as perfect in their way as Bret Harte's short stories of early California life."

J. B. HARRISON, Pittsfield, Mass., will publish shortly, a new volume of sermons, by Rev. William Wilberforce Newton (a brother of R. Heber Newton) entitled "Summer Sermons from a Berkshire Pulpit." It will be in pamphlet shape, about 250 pages. Many of the sermons cover the same subjects as his noted brother's.

"THE SHADOW OF THE WAR," that recent semi-political novel (whose authorship has been a mystery) is now known to have been written by Dr. Stephen T. Robinson, a practising physician of Edwardsville, Ill. His residence in South Carolina for a number of years after the war made him familiar with the actual workings of reconstruction.

GINN, HEATH & Co., have just published "Aristophanes' Clouds," based upon the edition of Kock, by M. W. Humphreys, Professor of Greek in the University of Texas; "Selections from Greek Authors for Sight Reading," by Prof. J. B. Kendrick of Yale University, issued in pamphlet form; and a new edition of "Beowulf" in the Library of Anglo-Saxon Poetry.

MR. WILLIAM WALLACE WHITE 613 Walnut Street, Philadelphia has issued a valuable little book to office-holders, office-seekers and all others interested in the expected changes in the Federal Civil Service. It is entitled "The Philadelphia Blue Book," and it contains a complete list of the Federal offices and employes there and at Washington, with the salary of each, together with much cognate information.

WILL H. COLEMAN, Astor House, N. Y., has issued a little dictionary of Creole proverbs, selected by Lafcadio Hearn (of the New Orleans Times-Democrat) from six Creole dialects, translated into French and English, with notes, index to subjects, and some brief remarks on Creole idioms in Louisiana. The title of the curious little volume is "Gombo Zhèbes," the name of a vegetable soup, okra predominating, with which the Creole skill in cooking is identified.

S. E. CASSINO & Co. have just ready their first issue of "The International Scientists' Directory," edited by S. E. Cassino, a most useful work, originally issued with the names of American scientists only, but now developed into a directory which embraces all the known scientists throughout the world, specifying the various branches in which they are versed, together with their full addresses. Another work of importance just issued, is "A Complete Guide to the Use of the Microscope in Botanical Research," by Dr. Julius Wilhelm Behrens, translated and edited by Rev. A. B. Hervey, assisted by Dr. R. H. Ward, which undertakes to cover the whole field of histological research in botany. It is illustrated with 152 wood-cuts and 13 plates.

THE NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHING CO. has just published "School Keeping: How to do It," by Dr. Hiram Orcutt, the design of which is to aid and encourage teachers and such who would profit by the experience of others in the duties of the school-room, together with a chapter on physical culture, which is supplemented by a manual of gymnastics, adapted to the school-room, by a professor in Yale College; "John Amos Comenius, Bishop of the Moravians; His Life and Educational Works," by S. S. Laurie; and "Quizzism and its Key, or Quirks and Quibbles from Queer Quarters—a melange of Questions in Literature, Science, History, Biography, etc., with their Answers," a useful work of reference, by Egbert P. Southwick, author of "Short Studies in Literature."

MACMILLAN & Co. announce a "History of the University of Oxford, from the Earliest Times to the Revival of Learning," by Mr. H. C. Maxwell Lyte, author of a "History of Eton." They have also in preparation a "fragment" on the Principles of Economics, left by the late Prof. W. Stanley Jevons.

CASELL & Co., London have just issued the first volume of Henry W. Lucy's "Diary of Two Parliaments," embracing the Disraelian Parliament. It has been highly praised by the London press. They have under way a work by Mr. David Glasgow, Vice-President of the British Horological Institute, on "Watch and Clock Making," which will shortly be published in their Manuals of Technology, edited by Prof. Ayrton and Dr. Wormell.

THE Council of the Shakespeare Memorial appeals to authors, publishers, bookbuyers and booksellers for presentation copies of any edition of Shakespeare's works, books illustrative of his Life and Times, Essays, Criticisms, Portraits of Actors of his Plays, Medals—anything which bears the name or is inspired by the fame of the great dramatist. It is also intended to collect general dramatic literature, thus forming a comprehensive reference library or history of dramatic poetry and the stage. Donations may be addressed to C. E. Flower, Chairman of the Council, Stratford-upon-Avon, England.

SAMPSON LOW & Co. will shortly issue a monograph by Mr. Lennox Browne, entitled "The Voice as Affected by Alcohol and Tobacco;" and "The Child's Voice in Relation to its later Development," by Messrs. Emil Behnke and Lennox Browne, joint authors of "Voice, Song, and Speech," now in its third edition. Mr. Marston, of this firm returned to London two weeks ago with about two thirds of the complete manuscript of Mr. Stanley's forthcoming book on the Congo. American, French, Scandinavian, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese and Dutch editions have already been, or will be arranged for. The work may be looked for next month.

It is printed from new Long Primer Type, and embellished with decorative head-pieces, and a frontispiece by SOL EYTINGE, Jr., on the best of paper, bound with a handsome cloth cover, and sold at a figure so exceptionally low as to command the attention of the public. Price, $1.60.

Guizot's

Also a CHEAPER EDITION, just issued, in 8 volumes, large 12mo., with 64 Fine Illustrations, otherwise the same contents as the other edition. Paper, press-work and binding all first-class. Bound in fine cloth; price of the set, $5.00; postage 60 cents.

This is the only complete American edition of this magnificent work, which is known as the best popular history of France. The cost of the imported edition, with substantially $36.00 the same illustrations is Reduced to $5.00 the only other American edition (which is incomplete, coming down to, and NOT including even the French Revolution, and of course not the wars of Napoleon) is at the time of this announcement $33.00, while THIS is commonly considered the BEST for the library.

"The matchless brilliancy of Guizot's style, his graphic descriptions of men and events, his painstaking minuteness of detail, the lucidity and ease of his style and the admirable philosophic reflections, all combine to render it worthy of the description it bears as the most popular history of France. It is as fascinating as a novel, and as life-like as a theatrical representation of the events and personages it describes. How the set can be sold for that price remains, after much reflection, a mystery, for the work is not sham work, it is well done; altogether it is a marvel of cheapness. Mr. Alden has done much for the cause of good literature, but nothing better than this."

—Daily Times, Buffalo, N. Y.
"It is far the best history of France that has been written. It is a wonder of cheapness."—Christian Advocate, Richmond, Va.

"Such a history, by such a writer, and at such a price, should gain readers by the thousand."—Churchman, Richmond, Va.

CELEBRATED HISTORY of FRANCE, from the Earliest Times to 1848. By M. GUIZOT, Prime Minister of France, continued from his notes, by his daughter, MME. GUIZOT DE WITT. France

Seven Great Monarchies

Of the Ancient Eastern World. By GEO. RAWLINSON. Chaldea, Assyria, Babylon, Media, Persia, Parthia, and New Persian Empire. In three large 12mo. volumes, large type, with notes, index, and over 700 illustrations and maps, bound in fine cloth, gilt tops. Price reduced from $18.00, to $3.00; postage 42 cents extra.

"Then there is Guizot's admirable and fascinating 'History of France,' in eight nicely made and well illustrated volumes, with good print and gilt tops. But, in our judgment, the best bargain of all is his three-volume edition of Rawlinson's notable work, 'The Seven Great Monarchies.' Professor Rawlinson has no equal as a historian of the ancient Eastern Empires to which he here introduces us. We stand far back at the beginnings of history, and those strange Oriental peoples, and their habits and customs, their lives and deeds, transpire before our very eyes. At his magical touch the dead arise and recount the story of their time. These books are full of illustrations which illumine the text. They are well-made, thick books, on good paper, with good maps, and gilt tops. Once, these volumes,—the same text, maps, and illustrations—sold for $18."—Golden Rule, Boston.

JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl Street, New York.

Booksellers, especially those who sympathize with the work, are urged to keep these books in stock. The limited discount prevents underselling, and makes the books safe to handle, and there should be a large sale in educational institutions and among young men.

One of the books that aids the sale of books

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL LIBRARY

By A. E. DUNNING,
SUNDAY-SCHOOL SECRETARY.

16mo, cloth. Price (retail), 60 cents.

This book is so excellent a guide for the organization and management of Sunday-school libraries, that the OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, desirous to place it on its own list of practical aids for booksellers, librarians, and bookbuyers—with a view to serving its constituency—has made arrangements with the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society, which will enable this Office to supply the book at uniform rates to the trade.

Every bookseller who deals in books for the young should have a copy in his own reference library; but it is a book that will be specially welcome to Book Committees, Sunday-school Superintendents and Teachers, Clergymen, Parents, etc. It is a work that cannot fail to aid and encourage an intelligent purchase of books.

From the Boston Advertiser.

"What the Rev. A. E. Dunning does not know about Sunday-school libraries is hardly worth knowing. His book is the fruit of practical experience, and answers hundreds of questions which are asked by those in charge of Sunday-schools, as to the selection of books, their use, their distribution, their relation to the proper work of the school. . . . Mr. Dunning has written a concise, pithy, sensible book. His points are good and are well stated."

From the Congregationalist.

"Secretary Dunning has written a capital book suggested by many inquiries which have been made of him. It treats of the history, object, authorship, selection, use, distribution, and power of the library. It is exceedingly practical and sensible, is written with unusual vigor, is thoroughly interesting, is unsectarian, and has, in an appendix, a list of works suitable for a library. The portion of it which deals with the selection of books is specially valuable, and the volume only needs to become known to gain a large sale among all denominations."

From the Sunday-School Times.

"The book contains a brief history of the origin and development of the Sunday-school library; chapters on its sphere of usefulness and its power; and plans, briefly stated, of selecting books, distributing them, and making them work. There is also a special chapter giving hints for those who would write Sunday-school books. Mr. Dunning is not one who believes in general lists of Sunday-school books, selected for the use of all schools, and without reference to the special needs of any; but for the benefit of those who wish a suggestive list, he adds a topical catalogue of books, in which each work mentioned is classified under a general head, and its special contents and characteristics are briefly indicated in a note. A basis is thus provided for intelligent choice on the part of librarians and committees."

AMERICAN CATALOGUE
 1876-1884.

NOW READY: Author-and-title Alphabet.

4to, pp. 444.

The new AMERICAN CATALOGUE includes titles of nearly 20,000 books, recorded as issued between July 1, 1876, and June 30, 1884, entered in the first part by author and title, and in the second by subject. The edition is limited to 1250 copies, and no plates are made.

Less than 50 copies remain unsold of the original AMERICAN CATALOGUE itself, now priced at $40. The price will probably be raised at an early date to $50 or $75 on the few remaining copies.
